I consider myself a liberal, open minded person, but the commercials and the half-time show of the Superbowl were patently offensive and in poor taste. Except for the donkey commercial, the commercials were geared to an immature frat house mentality, and I do not believe the majority of the viewers fit that category. The half-time show was just terrible. Why celebrate the most disgusting and embarassing element of our culture? It has gone too far.